

The Backstitch

The backstitch is one of the most common stitches, and it is great when a strong seam is needed. Each stitch is formed by placing the needle behind where the previous stitch lies.

You can think of this stitch as going two steps forward and one step back for every stitch. The shorter the backstitch, the stronger the seam will be. A general guide is to have a stitch about an 1/4 inch wide.

Sewing a Button

With your threaded needle, start from the back and gently push your needle through the fabric to the front side. Make sure that wherever your needle is matches where you want your button to be.

Place your button on your fabric in its intended location, and guide your needle through the button holes as shown in step 1 and 2 in Figure 1.

Repeat steps 1 & 2 until the button is snug (about 3 - 5 times)

After finishing your last repeat of steps 1 and 2, your needle should be on the back side of the fabric. Come up through the fabric in the other set of diagonal holes, as shown in Figure 2.

Repeat steps 3 & 4 until the button is snug (about 3 - 5 times)

Knot the end trim any excess thread.
